Use of Force: Leadership, Decision Making and Analysis Dec. 9 - 10, 2025 0830 - 1630 Hours

In today's environment, every use of force incident is subject to intense scrutiny, often analyzed frame by frame and judged by individuals lacking proper training. This has led to increased distrust and the spread of false narratives. The analysis, investigation, and training of police and corrections use of force remain complex and continually evolving challenges.

This 2-day training session is specifically designed for police and corrections leaders who review, investigate, report and train use of force. Do you have any additional updated specialized training in use of force analysis? Through lectures, case studies, and demonstrations, this course provides actionable insights and proven strategies to navigate the challenges of modern use of force incidents.

INSTRUCTIONAL OBJECTIVES:

Leadership, Supervision, Human Performance and Review

- Recognize the importance of early intervention systems for tracking and analyzing use of force patterns within an agency.
- Demonstrate how to reduce agency liability by implementing de-escalation strategies and properly documenting use of force mitigations.
- Identify and implement the five essential steps for reviewing use of force incidents effectively.
- Identify key data points and trends to monitor when tracking agency use of force incidents.
- Performance assessment—reinforcing the principle that “you can’t manage what you don’t measure.”
- Recognize the limitations and risks associated with body-worn and surveillance video during review and reporting processes.
- Formulate immediate and appropriate press release strategies following high-visibility use of force incidents.
- Insightful discussions, case reviews, and scenario analysis tailored to leadership-level responsibilities.
- Discuss the impact of human performance factors—such as stress, perception, and decision-making—during high-stress encounters.
- Apply appropriate response strategies when engaging with individuals considered part of special populations (e.g., mental illness and medical conditions).
- Coordinate and strategize effectively during multiple officer engagements
- Accurately track trend and assess use of force incidents in a quantifiable method.
